3. About the Event

The AI for Social Good Hackathon is a technical event organized by the ZIGBEE club of Jain University's Computer Science department. The primary objective of this event is to encourage students to develop innovative AI solutions that address pressing social issues. Participants will have the opportunity to collaborate, brainstorm, and create prototypes that can positively impact society. By hosting this hackathon, we aim to foster a culture of innovation, social responsibility, and technological excellence within our university community.

4. Objectives

- To encourage students to develop innovative AI solutions that address pressing social issues.
- To provide a platform for students to collaborate, brainstorm, and create prototypes that can positively impact society.
- To foster a culture of innovation, social responsibility, and technological excellence within the university community.
- To identify and reward the most promising AI-based solutions that have the potential to create a significant social impact.

5. Target Audience

The target audience for this event is undergraduate and postgraduate students from the Computer Science department, with a focus on those interested in AI and machine learning. The event is open to students from all years, but priority will be given to those with a strong background in programming and AI.
